BANFF, Alta. (CP) — Princess Margaret Monday night ended her three-day rest in the Canadian Rockies at an Alberta government dinner, where a mountain was named after her. She was to travel to Calgary by train today.

The Princess attended the dinner at the palatial Banff Springs Hotel, where more than 300 holidays gave her a noisy welcome.

Along the road to the hotel hundreds of persons huddled in a heavy downpour 40 minutes before the royal party arrived. Earlier in the day the Princess received a fawning send-off by some 600 students at Banff School of Fine Arts.

The students, in sweaters, shorts and ballet costumes, lined the approaches to the school, covered its rolling green lawns, and sat atop log chalets, cheering "Vive la Princess."

Princess Margaret arrived here Saturday night and has rested in Fairholme Lodge, high in the mountains east of Banff, taking occasional scenic drives. In a two-hour drive Monday, the Princess visited a Canadian army radar camp and received a gift of a white buckskin Indian costume.

"SO CHARMING"

LT-Col. J. C. Cave of Esquimalt, camp commander, said after conducting the Princess around the grounds: "She was so charming I forgot entirely who I was."

The Indian costume, a chemise-style dress, moccasins and Indian princess headdress, was given to Princess Margaret at a brief ceremony. No Indians were present.

LEADING SEAMSTRESS

The costume, embroidered with colorful beads, was made of the velvet skins of three mountain deer by 67-year-old Leah Simpson, leading seamstress of the Stoney Tribe.

Princess Margaret almost lost two articles here. Monday she suddenly missed a diamond-and-ruby brooch.

Minutes later, an RCMP officer picked it up outside the lodge. The Princess extended her personal thanks.

Sunday, she left a scarf in St. George's-in-the-Pines Anglican Church. Again, an alert RCMP constable returned it.

HER MOUNTAIN

An 8,508-foot mountain was officially named Princess Margaret Mountain at the dinner last night.

The Princess said she was "so touched that you have named one of your lovely mountains after me."

DULLES COMMITS U.S. TO DEFEND TURKEY, IRAN

'Baghdad' Nations Get Transfusion

LONDON (AP) — State Secretary Dulles Monday night committed the United States to defence of Iran, Turkey and Pakistan as a virtual partner in the Baghdad Pact.

The pact is being realigned to take into account the apparent loss of its only Arab member, Iraq. Dulles signed up after twice talking with President Eisenhower in Washington by telephone.

MORE INVOLVED

Automatically, the United States became more deeply involved in the Middle East than ever before.

Without technically joining the pact, the United States virtually became a member through the new obligations undertaken in the declaration that Dulles signed with leaders of Iran, Turkey, Pakistan and Britain.

ALLIANCE BOLSTERED

With this stroke, the United States increased the strength of the alliance, weakened after violent overthrow of the royal government of Iraq, the fifth active member.

Iraq was not represented at the Baghdad Pact council meeting.

A spokesman for Britain said:

"We greatly welcome the strengthening of American ties with members of the Baghdad Pact organization."

TWO-WAY PACTS

The declaration provides that the United States will promptly enter into two-way agreements with Iran, Pakistan, Turkey and Britain.

The document expressed determination of the signers "to maintain their collective security and to resist aggression—direct or indirect."

SIDE-STEPPING

By not technically joining the pact, the United States is side-stepping an obligation to assist the new government in Baghdad.

The five-nation declaration indicated pact members are establishing relationship with other free world powers associated for collective security.

U.S., U.K. Accused Of Stalling

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev Monday accused the United States and Britain of stalling on proposed summit talks and demanded a direct reply from President Eisenhower on when he would be willing to attend a top-level conference.

CALL REJECTED

The Russian leader rejected an Anglo-American suggestion that the United Nations Security Council decide on the time and makeup of a summit meeting. He charged this was a procedural stall aimed at camouflaging Anglo-American "aggression" in the Middle East.

ORIGINAL PLAN

Instead, Khrushchev reverted to his original proposal — backed by French Premier Charles de Gaulle — that the meeting be held in some European capital. He suggested Geneva, Paris, Vienna or Moscow as possible sites.

The Soviet premier said the Middle East situation is "so urgent that the Security Council cannot take effective steps."

POWDER KEG

In his letter to Eisenhower, the Russian leader said the Middle East is "becoming more like a powder keg which can precipitate a world holocaust" but that the Security Council has been unable to do anything to ease the crisis.

"If we genuinely want to reduce tension, we must agree that it is the five powers (Russia, U.S., Britain, France and India) that will have to settle the problem," he said. "It seems that an effort is being made to bury the previous idea of the conference. We cannot accept this."

"DRAGGING TAUNT"

The Soviet premier said the United States is trying to "drag the summit talks into a labyrinth of talking and procedural matters" in order to shelve a solution of "the most pressing problem of today — the withdrawal of foreign troops from Lebanon and Jordan."

"Mr. President, you do not work for peace, but are extending the conflict and thus assume heavy responsibility before the world for the consequences. Heavy responsibility also rests on Macmillan, who resorts to manoeuvring."

Sunshine Coasting To July Record

A new record for July sun and although cloud obscured shine became virtually certain in Victoria yesterday.

By sunset Sunday night, Victoria had panted and perspired its way to within 16 sunshine hours of the record set in 1921.

Explorer IV In 'Hot' Spot

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) — Explorer IV has confirmed the existence of intense radiation in space at altitudes above 600 miles. Dr. James Van Allen said Monday.

America's newest satellite has been photographed for the first time in Peru.

Dr. Karl G. Henize, Smithsonian astrophysical observatory astronomer, said a series of precision photographs were made at Arequipa, Peru.

and although cloud obscured the sun at times yesterday, there are three days left in July, each with a sunshine potential of about 14 hours.

Setting of another record first rainless July in this century — seemed a little more in doubt last night.

The weather office said scattered thunderstorms were predicted for the mountain areas of Vancouver Island and southern B.C., and that there was some possibility a thunderstorm might spill some rain on Victoria.

Last completely rainless July was in 1899.

Heat of the past two days has failed to bring the mean temperature for the month within easy challenging distance of the 65.6 degree record set in 1906. Mean temperature so far is about 63 degrees.

Even Sunday's blazing 87.3 degrees, a new high for this time of year, was well behind the all-time record of 95.2 set July 17, 1941.

2,500 Battle Blazes

A desperate, overworked forest service yesterday ordered the hiring of a second $100-an-hour giant Sikorsky helicopter to aid in fighting one of the worst forest fire situations on record.

More than 2,500 men were battling about 300 blazes which were eating through valuable timberlands in the province yesterday, an increase of 31 fires over the previous day.

20,000 ACRES

Most troublesome fire in the province is located 50 miles north of Prince George at Tachoda Lake in the Parsnip River area and already covers 20,000 acres.

In the Vancouver forest district which includes Vancouver Island, the forest service has put an emergency call in for more fire fighting planes.

"SCOOP-UP"

One technique used in Eastern Canada is now to be utilized on the Island with the use of a float-equipped Beaver aircraft. The plane has a "scoop-up" method of loading water and can take in 160 gallons in its two pontoons in 40 seconds. The method is highly successful in fighting lightning strikes.

Forest service spokesmen said that five other planes are being fitted with the pontoons.

OUT OF CONTROL

District forester D. B. Taylor said yesterday that 60 fires were burning in the Vancouver district, the most serious of which is at Harrison Lake where more than 160 men are battling a 3,000-acre fire which jumped fire guards and is still out of control.

Fire fighting costs this year have already passed the record $1,000,000 chalked up in 1951 and the worst periods—in August—are yet to come.

Mountain Rebels of Lebanon

Hollywood Never Dreamed of Setting Like This

By JACK V. FOX

MOUKHTARA, Lebanon (UPI) — In a dilapidated sort of throne room of a great stone castle sat a rather bored but elegant young man in a worsted suit of Brooks Brothers cut, smelling of toilet water.

Surrounding him were a villainous band who broke into gap-toothed smiles at the first friendly overture.

This was the fabulous Kamil Jumblatt, chief of the Lebanese mountain rebels. The rocky nest where he dwells is a castle of 200 rooms, of long, steep stairs, parapets that suddenly turn into corridors, ledges that drop to the rocks far below.

Hollywood never dreamed of a setting or cast like this. One expects Gary Cooper to come bounding through the window in a French Foreign Legion uniform.

I reached Jumblatt's castle after a two-hour taxi ride from Beirut. We passed through at least a dozen bandit road posts with nothing more than my American passport and the garulous amiability of my driver.

In the courtyard below the castle were several hundred rebels armed with rifles, belted hand grenades, sub-machine-guns, and cartridge belts crossed over their shoulders.

Jumblatt is a leader of the Druze sect, an offshoot of the Islamic sect which believes the Saviour is yet to come and that he will be born of man.

I was led up three long flights of stone steps. I waited awhile in the shade of a grape arbor, then was taken into a large room with straight-backed arm-chairs. A boy about eight years old played on the floor with four kittens.

Jumblatt walked into the room. Behind him came a strange array of men. Some were in uniform, some in Western-style suits, most in native dress. Jumblatt shook hands and introduced me to the boy, his son. I sat down.

The others sat, too, and then one by one came forward in speak in Arabic. Jumblatt was holding court.

Some carried written reports on military problems. A doctor came forward to show me a pint of blood plasma he had brought from Beirut for a wounded rebel. An old man from a nearby village explained he was running short of food.

Jumblatt's family is wealthy and is supporting the whole area.

In his zeal for his case, the old man moved into the chair on Jumblatt's right, sitting on a kitten, which yowled furiously. Jumblatt is an ascetic type who speaks accented but good English. He once taught at the Sorbonne in Paris. I asked him what message he had for the American people.

He said first the U.S. Marines should go. Perhaps, he said, they were helping preserve Lebanon's independence and integrity, as President Eisenhower said. But the country must work out its own internal affairs.

The rebels, he said, did not want Lebanon in the Nasser camp, nor in Russia. They also did not want it occupied by American troops.

Would his men fight the Americans?

They did not want to, he said, but would do so if the U.S. troops came into the mountains.

Wet, Smelly And Scared But Alive

CLEVELAND — A big wave of water flushed four teen-age boys through a long storm sewer Monday. They came out wet, scared and smelly, but alive.

Two of them rode the wave — stumbling, swimming, floating — almost down to Lake Erie, a distance of four miles or more. The others grabbed at manholes on the way down and were pulled out.

Thomas Davis, his brother Fred, Terry McGuire and Kevin McInerney had been playing along Dugway Brook below Forest Hills Park. At this point the creek enters a large tunnel. The water flows through a storm sewer system, and finally becomes an open culvert.

A sudden deluge of rain sent a five-foot wall of water down the creek, sweeping the boys with it.

COLOGNE, West Germany — Otto John, former West German counter-intelligence chief who was sentenced to four years in prison for conspiring with the Communists, was freed on parole yesterday.

He vanished mysteriously into East Berlin on July 20, 1954, exactly 10 years after participating in the abortive bomb plot against Adolf Hitler. After spending 18 months in East Germany, he returned just as mysteriously to the West.

NEW ORLEANS — Lieut. Gen. Claire Chennault, 67, the Louisiana farm boy who became commander of the famed Flying Tigers of the Second World War, died Sunday of lung cancer. Today a military plane will fly the body to Washington where it will lie in state until burial the next day in Arlington National Cemetery.

NEW YORK — Robert Leister, who defeated quiz whiz Elfrida von Nardoff, was beaten last night on the TV's Twenty-One but still went home with $43,500. He was defeated by Dr. Wade Ruby.

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa — Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Murphy are running out of names and rooms after the birth of their third set of twins in 27 months. Judith Murphy, 20, gave birth to the latest set of twins last Friday. They joined Patty Colleen and Timothy Michael, born April 18, 1956, and Danny Ray and Debbie Kay, who came along July 11, 1957.

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower, like a lot of Americans, had a flat tire yesterday. But he didn't have to wait for his car to pull sideways or go bumping along on a wheel rim to find out about it. Secret service agents riding behind him saw the tire going down, quickly radioed ahead to the presidential car. Like and his lady transferred to another air-conditioned limousine, leaving the agents to fix the flat.

WASHINGTON — Dr. LeRoy E. Burney, U.S. surgeon-general, says a "breakthrough is imminent" in the battle against cancer.

JAMESTOWN, N.D. — Two smiling balloonists (Cmdr. Malcolm Ross and M. Lee Lewis), made a harrowing mile-long landing on a North Dakota pasture Sunday, ending the longest journey by the U.S. into the stratosphere—34½ hours.

HARTFORD, Conn. — Doctors tried to keep alive today a Canadian Jehovah's Witness who was told flatly he will die unless he receives life-saving blood transfusions. Thyrle G. Foster, 50, of Fredericton, N.B., near death after being struck by a car Saturday, has steadfastly refused any transfusions.

LONDON — Robin Douglas-Horne is going back to playing piano. This means he virtually has given up hope of marrying Sweden's Princess Margaretha. He will play at a French Riviera resort hotel in Nice for a week starting Aug. 17.

JUNEAU, Alaska — Mountain climber David Tolland, 23, Grand Rapids, Mich., suffocated when a blizzard buried his tent in snow during an unsuccessful attempt to scale Mt. St. Elias on the Alaska-Canada border. The incident occurred July 18.

Measuring Enzymes Tells What's Wrong

The treatment of every disease begins with its diagnosis—both are equally difficult. This fourth of five articles by an award-winning scientist to detect and trace the course of a variety of deadly human ailments.

By LEONARD ENGEL

NEW YORK (NANA) — Almost everyone who has been to a hospital or a doctor's office is familiar with such tests as a blood count to determine the number of red and white cells in the blood, or a urine analysis to determine whether sugar or other undesirable substances are present.

Such tests play an indispensable role in medicine. With their help, the doctor takes the first step toward the successful treatment of disease. He finds out what ails the patient.

TINY AMOUNTS

A vastly more refined, more powerful system of chemical tests is taking shape in the research laboratory. Chemists are learning how to measure enzymes obtained from various organs. Enzymes are substances present in different parts of the body in tiny amounts—no more than millions of a gram per gram of tissue. They help the body function by promoting the myriad chemical reactions on which the heart, liver, lungs and brain depend.

SENSITIVE INDICATOR

Enzyme levels can be a remarkable sensitive indicator of disease. For example, one series of enzyme tests can trace the progress of cancer therapy. Another can detect carriers of infectious hepatitis, who have no other detectable signs of illness.

Enzyme tests have been under development for several years. Only recently, though, has the technique received a name.

INGENIOUS TESTS

Dr. Felix Wroblewski, a biochemist at New York's Sloan-Kettering Institute, who worked out several of the most ingenious enzyme-testing procedures, calls the technique "biochemical biopsy"—chemical inspection of the living organism.

The basis for biochemical biopsy is that enzymes are generated and discharged in varying amounts into blood, spinal fluid and other body fluids both in healthy and sick persons.

VARIOUS CELLS

Some enzymes are manufactured in the cells of particular organs. Others are manufactured by tissues in many parts of the body. But even where a given group of enzymes is produced by more than one organ, Dr. Wroblewski declares, measurement of the levels of several enzymes can pinpoint the tissue from which abnormal quantities are coming and which therefore is diseased.

The human body probably produces many thousands of different enzymes altogether, and the immense majority are as yet undiscovered, but the number of useful enzyme tests is growing rapidly.

HIGHLY ACCURATE

One which is already in wide use is a test for coronary attack. When a coronary attack occurs, damaged heart muscle cells release an enzyme known as glutamic-oxalacetic transaminase. Abnormal quantities of the enzyme (which is called GOT or transaminase for short) can be detected in the blood with the aid of special chemical equipment beginning about six hours after the attack. Unlike the electrocardiogram, which does not detect a large proportion of heart attacks, the transaminase test is nearly 100 per cent accurate.

EARLY DETECTION

Equally important is the application of enzyme tests to diseases of the liver. Diseased livers release into the blood varying amounts of two enzymes—GOT and glutamic-pyruvic transaminase (GPT). The ratios of GOT and GPT can tell the physician not only what type of liver disease the patient has, but can detect a disease such as infectious hepatitis four to six weeks before the appearance of any other symptoms.

CANCER STORY

Even more remarkable is the cancer story. In studies extending over several years, Dr. Wroblewski and his colleagues have found abnormal amounts of another enzyme, lactic dehydrogenase, present in the body fluids of cancer patients. Moreover, the type of cancer can often be identified from the particular body fluid showing a rise in LD. Thus, brain tumors frequently cause a rise in LD in spinal fluid.

TELLS PROGRESS

When cancers are arrested or destroyed, the LD level drops. So LD tests can be employed to follow the progress of treatment. Such tests are already being used to gauge the effectiveness of experimental anticancer drugs in animals.

Higher Pensions For Ex-Servants

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government has decided to boost pensions for retired federal employees receiving below-normal payments.

Finance Minister Fleming announced to the Commons yesterday that pensions to former civil servants, RCMP and armed forces personnel, and their widows and children, are to be increased by amounts up to $640 a year.

They will be retroactive to July 1 and the extra money should start appearing in pension envelopes by the fall, he said.

The highest amounts will go to pensioners who retired in 1945 or earlier—before salaries in the three branches of government service were hoisted and living costs began to rise. The highest increase will be to the pensioner who retired in 1945 or earlier and now is receiving $2,000 a year. He will get a boost of $640.

Only pensions not now exceeding $3,000 annually will be raised and the top for a pension plus increase is $3,000. For the widow, the maximum pension qualifying for a raise is $1,500; for a child $500, and orphaned child $800.

The United Nations charter was signed in San Francisco June 26, 1945.

FACTS

about exchanging your

3% wartime Victory Bonds

1. What is the Canada Conversion Loan of 1958?

It is an offer to replace all unmatured 3% wartime Victory Bonds with new 25-year 4½% Canada Conversion Bonds. (Other bonds of shorter term, bearing interest rates of 4¼%, 3¾% and 3% are also available.)

2. Why is the Government making this conversion offer?

In order to reorganize the national debt on a longer term basis and thus reduce the volume of Government refinancing over the next few years. There is widespread public and business agreement that this is a sensible idea and will help protect the soundness of the Canadian dollar.

3. What interest will I receive on the new bonds?

On the 25-year bonds the interest rate is 4½%—this is 50% greater than the old Victory Bond rate. The increase on the 14-year and the 7-year bonds is also substantial.

4. As a Victory Bond holder, will I be required to make any additional payment?

No. On the contrary, you will receive an immediate cash adjustment.

5. Do I have to convert my Victory Bonds?

You may, if you wish, hold your Victory Bonds until maturity and on the due date you will be paid their full face value. The Conversion Loan offer is open only to Victory Bond holders; and the "right" to convert gives Victory Bonds a special value until the offer expires. This is because there are many people trying to buy them in order to invest in the new bonds.

6. What will be the total of my cash adjustment?

It will depend on the type of exchange. For example, a $500 8th Victory Bond exchanged for a $500 Conversion Bond paying 4½% will give you $8.75 in cash immediately. This includes earned interest.

7. Does this offer apply to Canada Savings Bonds and other Government of Canada Bonds?

No. This offer is limited to unmatured wartime Victory Loan Bonds only.

8. What steps should I take if I am away from home on vacation and wish to take advantage of this offer?

You should write immediately to your bank, investment dealer, stockbroker, trust or loan company, requesting literature and application forms.

9. Does it matter that the Victory Bond I hold is very small?

Every holder of a Victory Bond, even though the amount held may be only $50, should take advantage of this offer. It is in his best interests as well as in the best interests of Canada.

10. How long is this offer open?

Until September 15, 1958, but it is to your advantage to convert as quickly as possible and have the benefit of the immediate cash adjustment.

11. Where can I exchange my Victory Bonds?

At any bank, investment dealer, trust or loan company, or through your stockbroker.

'Blackmail Charges Considered'

VANCOUVER (CP)—A lumber company executive charged in the Sommers bribery-conspiracy trial testified Monday that there were suggestions of laying blackmail charges against a former bookkeeper of the company who made demands for $10,000 or a life partnership in 1955.

John M. Gray testified that nothing was done about it, however, because his brother, H. Wilson Gray, president of Pacific Coast Services Limited, said it "would harm the Social Credit party."

HARM PARTY

Gray is a director—in his brother's firm. He said that when the "blackmail" demands were made by former bookkeeper Charles W. Eversfield—a chief Crown witness in the case—both he and the firm's vice-president, S. W. Armitage, wanted charges laid against him but "Wilson said it would harm the Social Credit party and said just let it lie for a while."

On the witness stand for his third day in the 49th day of the trial, Gray recounted how his brother Wilson told him he had been collecting Social Credit party funds and had named some of them to former and forest minister Robert Sommers, now the central figure in the case.

TO KEEP QUIET

Gray said Eversfield demanded the $10,000 or life partnership to keep quiet about documents he said he had which would show these loans Eversfield left the Pacific firm in March, 1955, taking with him scores of documents from the company's files. It is in these that the crown now mainly bases its 20-charge indictment against Sommers, the Gray brothers and Charles D. Schultz. Eversfield now lives in Los Angeles.

Gray told assistant prosecutor Stewart McMorran he knew there were no bribes. When the prosecutor pursued the question and asked if he had been present at all times, Gray replied:

"Mr. McMorran, from our earliest childhood we have been brought up on the teachings and are bringing our children up on the teachings of the greatest teacher that has been on this earth—and I say to you Mr. McMorran, to the ladies and gentlemen of the jury and to Your Lordship that I would not and could not and have not entered into the allegations made in this court."

"That is my answer."

The prosecutor questioned Gray persistently about money

Neglect Loses Tourists

Resort Loans Urged

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada is losing her position in the tourist industry "through neglect," the Commons was told Monday by an Ontario member who urged government-guaranteed loans to help resort operators improve their accommodation.

"Travel has developed on the North American continent from a luxury to a way of life," said Gordon Aiken (PC—Parry Sound-Muskoka).

He proposed a resolution asking the government to adopt a plan of tourist loans similar to those available for national housing. A portion of the loan would be guaranteed by the federal government.

Such loans would be granted only with reasonable assurance that the recipient could make his business pay "under normal operating conditions," said Mr. Aiken.

Resort operators have difficulty obtaining loans, he said, because the tourist business is seasonal and is not classed as a "good security" by mortgage companies.

But tourism was Canada's third industry as a direct source of foreign income, ranking behind newsprint and wheat.

It was no longer sufficient for Canada to show visitors "nature's great beauties by day, and ask them to sleep in road side cabins at night," he said. Canada was losing United States business to Europe and to the U.S. home market, he said.

Tide Sweeps Over Isle, Rescue Comes Too Late

MONT SAINT MICHEL, France (UPI)—The famed racing tide in the bay surrounding the Abbey of Mont Saint Michel claimed five victims Sunday. They were among eight persons fishing from an island in the bay who failed to notice the tide roll in. It covered the island before a helicopter arrived and pulled four persons from the sea. One died later.

Need for Wariness

THE jockeying for position taking place over a summit meeting on the Middle East is a reminder of the proposed spring summit meeting which never came off. Except that the tense Middle East situation scarcely permits inaction, this one could fail to materialize also. It is not the first time that Mr. Khrushchev has proposed a meeting of major power heads and then hedged his proposal with so many conditions as to make it impracticable, quite as though he had never been serious but bent only on gaining a propaganda advantage.

It is one thing to suggest such a meeting and another thing to decide who should be there and what form it will take. If there is no set agenda a summit conference could be fruitless. The West, particularly must Mr. Khrushchev to some agreed range of subjects else it would find itself playing second fiddle from the start. President Eisenhower's insistence that if the conference is to be held under the aegis of the Security Council it is the latter which should have some say about the rules, for instance, is logical and sound. The council should be no mere handmaiden for the Soviet premier.

It is surprising to find Mr. Lester Pearson in opposition to such needful wary procedure, although it is noticeable nowadays he does not talk as he did when he was the responsible external affairs minister. He criticizes "the United States and Great Britain for not accepting the Khrushchev terms 'at once,'" when he of all people should know better. While in office he himself would never have been so naive. His own experience of having to look closely at the fine print of Soviet proposals before nodding agreement should enable him to appreciate the ground work the West must do in such cases.

It is all very handsome-sounding to say in effect "let's have a summit conference and talk this out," but unless some rules are set in advance the proposition is useless. The West has a point of view as well as Mr. Khrushchev, and simply to accept his terms regardless is to be outmanoeuvred before it begins. The Middle East situation or any other is not to be resolved without careful preparation before the West sits down with Soviet representatives. Without some clear-cut understanding as to the scope and nature of the talks a summit conference holds no promise of success, and certainly the West cannot approach it in blinkers or at the whim of the Soviet premier.

The CCF and the CLC

THE CCF has ended what has been described as an "historic" convention, full of optimism about the future. A party would be no good if it were pessimistic and the CCF has a respectable role to play in the political life of Canada. Whether it will be quite the role envisaged by delegates to the Montreal meeting is perhaps something else again.

The main decision taken was to align the CCF with the Canadian Labor Congress, or at least move towards a closer liaison with labor and farm groups in what was termed a new political movement. Hitherto informal talks on the subject will now become formal, although one notes the cautioning word of President Jodoin of the CLC that any arrangement made would not bind union members to vote for any political party other than that of their own choice. If freedom were to be a fact and not a fiction nothing else would be possible.

Good news for the CCF was Mr. Coldwell's change of mind about retiring, and he has consented to lead the party for another two years. This ensures the retention of a widely respected political leader and possibly a seat will be found for him in Parliament. His defeat at the last election was regretted nowhere more keenly than in the House of Commons.

Mr. Coldwell's 2-year limit suggests it is hoped that by that time the tie-up between the CCF and the CLC will be effected, since this is his principal reason for staying on. It will be interesting to see what results. It has long been a CCF aim to enroll the trade union movement under its political banner, along the lines of the Labor party in Britain. The blessings of such an arrangement are by no means unimpaired. For one thing it tends to split a nation into two hostile camps and it invites a type of class hatred invidious to society. Any idea also that workers should willy-nilly support one political party and one only, and this would be the corollary of CCF capture of the CLC, would be a negation of the true ballot.

One doubts that Canadian trade unionists are prepared to give up their privilege of voting as they please, or that they are inclined exclusively to philosophies of the CCF.

Nuclear Energy for Peaceful Use

A BRITISH Commonwealth conference which could have an important bearing on the employment of nuclear energy for peaceful purposes will be held in the United Kingdom from Sept. 15 to 20. It will be the outcome of the intention expressed by the Commonwealth prime ministers at their meeting last summer. A final communiqué then stated that the ministers had reviewed progress of co-operation within the Commonwealth in the use of nuclear energy for civil purposes. They "recognized the growing importance of the contribution which nuclear energy can make to the peaceful development of their countries and the rest of the world, and the value of close co-operation between members of the Commonwealth in this field."

The purpose of next month's conference, called by the United Kingdom government at the behest of the prime ministers' conference, is to show the Commonwealth delegates the work being done at the various United Kingdom atomic energy establishments. The visitors also will be given an opportunity for discussion of their particular requirements and of recent developments in the atomic energy field relevant to their needs.

The program is being arranged by the U.K. Atomic Energy Authority and the Central Electricity Generating Board. Travelling by chartered aircraft, the delegates from other parts of the Commonwealth will tour the atomic energy establishments of Great Britain, those devoted to research as well as those in practical operation, which have placed Britain in the forefront of all nations working towards the day of nuclear energy in abundance for civilian purposes.

Canada can enter this conference with a good deal of pride. Much more has been achieved in this Dominion's own atomic energy establishments than the public generally is aware, even in Canada itself. Thus while the meetings and inspections will be of great value to the Canadian representatives, the exchange of information should not be one-sided.

Interpreting the News

The METO Alliance

By CHARLES M. McCANN
UP Foreign News Analyst

THE future of the Middle Eastern Treaty Organization is likely to be decided in London this week.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles is in London to confer with four active members of the alliance—Turkey, Iran, Pakistan and Great Britain.

Iraq, the fifth member, is not expected to attend. The revolution in that country, the only Arab member, apparently makes it certain that it will withdraw from the pact.

The loss of Iraq would be a severe blow to the members of the alliance, and to the United States which sponsored it.

But Turkey, Iran and Pakistan have announced that they intend not only to maintain the alliance but to strengthen it.

To this end, Turkey and Pakistan urgently want the United States to become a full member.

This, dispatches from Washington say, the United States will not do.

The United States has joined the military, anti-subversion and economic committees of the pact. It has refused to take full membership largely because President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic detests it. Nasser takes the stand that the alliance weakened Arab unity, because Iraq joined it.

Actually, what he meant by unity was that it impeded his own ambition to seize the mastery of the Arab world.

Dulles sponsored the alliance. He did so to complete a chain of alliances against Soviet Russia aggression which extends from Arctic Norway through Western Europe and Western Asia to the Far East.

The METO alliance was signed in Baghdad, Iraq, in 1955. It provides not only for military co-operation but for co-operation in fighting Communist subversion and in economic affairs.

Iraq joined the alliance despite Nasser's bitter protests. Though he failed to keep Iraq out, he did succeed in keeping Jordan from joining it.

The METO alliance has been known as the Baghdad Pact because it was signed there, and its headquarters have been maintained in that capital.

It can hardly be called the Baghdad Pact any longer, however, and its headquarters most probably will be shifted to Ankara.

But the secret documents of the pact — on military strategy and tactics and on Communist subversion — will not be shifted. The Iraq rebels seized them. The best that can be hoped is that they will not go eventually to Russia.

Thinking Aloud

"... of shoes—and ships—and sailing wax—of cabbages and kings."
By TOM TAYLOR

THE blood royal is a complicated proposition; it has a protocol of its own, as may be deduced from the appointment of Prince Charles as Prince of Wales.

Since it is the custom for the eldest son of the sovereign to be given this title, and has been for the past 600 years, one might wonder why he isn't so named immediately he is born.

Precedent is a stickler, however, and perhaps it would be improper to outdo too far the very first Prince of Wales. He didn't come by the title until he was 16 years of age.

Yet, in a sense, he was born to it. You remember the story; it is a fine example of equivocation. That mighty monarch, Edward I, in whose chair the new Cymric prince one day will sit, all going well for him, had just conquered Wales, but like other conquerors before and after him found it expedient to appease his new subjects. He promised them a prince who couldn't speak English.

And there was one to hand, his son, who true enough didn't speak English. In fact he didn't speak, period; being but an infant.

But, says history, that placated the Welsh, and anyway this first Prince of Wales was born a native son, at Caernarvon. Had they had British Empire Games when he was a young man, and assuming he could run or jump better than average, he would have been eligible to compete in a Welsh jersey.

It would not be mere coincidence that last week's elevation of the young Prince Charles was announced at the BEG at Cardiff. Thus does the blood royal exemplify its manifold ramifications.

To date, as you know, Prince Charles has been officially titled both Duke of Cornwall and Duke of Rothesay, in addition to other lesser honors, all of them inherited.

These reflect the blood royal north and south of Hadrian's Wall, and their application has depended on which side of the wall one favors. North of it the newspapers referred to him as Duke of Rothesay and south of it he was referred to as Duke of Cornwall. I need not pursue the reason why, except to cite it as one more example of the historic tortuosity of the blood royal.

Wales now pushes both Angles and Scots aside, however, for the universal reference will henceforth be Prince of Wales. All hail, therefore, to the little prince who could not speak, for his star is the ascendant one.

There have been many Princes of Wales, as you know, some good and some not so good. One whose tomb I looked at a month ago at Canterbury was the Black Prince, so called because of the color of his armour and not his character. In heraldic parlance his escutcheon was unstained.

Nearer our time was one who as George IV did not adorn the throne. His tutor prophesied he'd either be the most polished gentleman or the most accomplished blackguard in Europe, possibly both, and he was right twice over.

The blood royal has been replenished since those days, however, and there can be small doubt which of these two spectacular predecessors will commend the admiration of the new, boyish, Prince of Wales.

Reports from Ottawa

OVERHEARD at a diplomatic cocktail party:

"And how do you like this country, Colonel?"

The Soviet military attaché, Col. Nicolai V. Evskikov, glanced quickly about before replying. "Don't quote me, but I like it fine."

ONE of Ottawa's leading Liberals quotes Mme. St. Laurent to the effect that she and Louis must sell their summer home at St. Patrice, Que. Seems they can't afford to keep it. The former PM was unable to save much money during his 16 years as minister and prime minister, what with maintaining three homes and having numerous proliferating progeny. More recently he lost money on copper stocks. It was thus not altogether a whim that took him back to law at age 76. His small handful of directorships are not in big corporations, and presumably not big paying.

SIR John A. lives in history almost as much for being a character as for his achievements as Confederation father and prime minister. John G. was not a character before he became prime minister — just a serious, hard-working MP whose assets included the ability to short-cut detail and a flair for making the country conscious of the name "Diefenbaker." But now John G. is well on the way to becoming a character. Check:

His threat to fire CBC people who booed his recent TV appearance.

His free-wheeling action in piping Commons' debates into his office.

His obvious enjoyment in keeping parliamentary assistantships dangling.

His blast at reporters for "misinterpreting" Paul-Henri Spaak of NATO.

His "Don't use that picture!" to a Toronto photographer who snapped him being hauled by a beautiful babe, and his order to a Cornwall photographer to shoot him from an angle which wouldn't show his double chin.

His weight-throwing in Commons and in cabinet.

His fancy for the word "bifurcate," meaning to divide into two branches. As Diefenbaker told the Commons on March 28, 1957, "It is very difficult for the prime minister to bifurcate himself." The root of the word is the Latin furca, meaning fork. It is a bifurcated root; it has another branch.

DIEFENBAKER said last week that Foreign Minister Smith talked at the weekend with Dulles, Lloyd, Hammarskjöld and others—but the PM declined to disclose any details. Then he added:

"I think all Canadians will agree" that Smith "has earned for this country the tribute of representatives of other countries as a result of his skill and the ability he has shown."

But until we find out what Smith said and did in those talks, how in the world can anybody arrive at that conclusion?

AT A diplomatic reception last Tuesday, Finance Minister Fleming by-passed the outstretched hand of the city editor of an Ottawa paper to pump the paw of a local lawyer. Far from being offended, the editor got a great charge out of it. He knows something that Fleming seemingly doesn't: the lawyer is one of the capital's hottest Reds.

The Packsack

OF GREGORY CLARK

PAST my summer cottage two or three times a week go flotillas of half a dozen canoes, with three young voyageurs in each.

These are the canoe trips which are a feature of the several boys' camps that are located up and down the shore. They tent out several nights, en route.

In most of the flotillas I notice that there is always one canoe dawdling twenty or thirty canoe lengths, sometimes farther, behind the busy main cluster of the group.

At the steamer wharf the other day I got into conversation with one of the counsellors who are in charge of the parties. I suppose there are two elderly teen-agers, around 18 or 19, in charge of each party. And I enquired about these dawdling canoes.

"Oh, those are the lazy paddlers," explained the counsellor. "In every group there are bound to be some lazy boys. So we segregate them. We put the loafers together in the same canoe."

Frustrate those loafers? Disturb their psyche?

The young counsellor laughed loftily.

"We also," he said, "put the bullies together in one canoe. Any overbearing kids get a taste of themselves, so to speak. We find it works fine."

With the Classics

Glory be to God for dappled things—

For skies of couple-color as a brindled cow;

For rose-moles all in stipple upon trout that swim;

Fresh-firecoal chestnut-falls; finches wings;

Landscape plotted and pieced—fold, fallow, and plough;

And all trades, their gear and tackle and trim.

All things counter, original, spare, strange;

Whatever is fickle, freckled (who knows how?)

With swift, slow; sweet, sour; adazzle, dim;

He fathers-forth whose beauty is past change:

Praise Him.

Centenary Sidelights

By RICHARD L. THOMAS

BRITISH COLUMBIA ought to have a centenary more often. For quite a time now I have been speaking to strangers who actually about British Columbia—even if no more than the fact that it was a place which Princess Margaret was going to visit. There are occasional misty illusions, of course, such as "I always thought it was in Canada," and a positive scalliwag who thought it had been taken over as the 49th state.

But what with centennial services in Westminster Abbey, exhibitions in the Public Record Office, and giant totem poles in Windsor Great Park there has been a mighty spate of intelligent and semi-intelligent information about British Columbia in the press, on the radio and on television. There have been a few slips, of course. We have been assured that Nanaimo "is just outside Vancouver" which might be arguable geographically, but caused high blood pressure to a Nanaimo resident over here on vacation.

The BBC elevated Mr. Bennett to the rank of prime minister, and New Westminster residents are not likely to be enthralled by a reference to the first capital city of British Columbia as a "Vancouver satellite"; but trivialities apart, it is quite a change to find British Columbia in the news without reference to shipping strikes, bomb outrages, forest fires, bridge disasters and acute unemployment and doubly comforting to find the Colonist referred to in its dignified old age, and as young as ever, and Mr. Seth Halton in the cables as well as on the masthead of the editorial page.

There was even an added kick in finding the honored name of Tyrrwhitt Drake represented by Miss Elizabeth illustrated in a charming picture of a graceful curv to Princess Margaret with the Rev. Brian Whitlow looking on, only a few hours after it was made. Indeed the newspapers make me nostalgic for Sam Lane's very young Oldie Englande.

And even though British Overseas Airways carried the Princess in Britannia to that satellite of New Westminster and/or Victoria called Vancouver, our dear old friends Canadian Pacific knuckled in making space out of circumstances with oblique references to ferries, the international terminal of the trans polar route at Vancouver international airport and a grim underlining of Vancouver Island inadequate. Because Britannias (not even the owned and operated by Canadian Pacific) cannot land at Patricia Bay on account of "limited airport facilities," the RCAF had to take over.

It seems someone slipped. The ru way should have been extended. Or bright boy in London said she should have travelled CP and it would have been; a trivial matter like that would not have been allowed to stand in the way of a really man-sized paragraph.

It reminded me that in one of lighter moments the late King George VI commented that he felt that one of the great virtues of royal tour and royal visits in Britain, was the considerable number of holes the road got filled in, grubby buildings got painted and the really ugly things were obscured by flags a hunting which emphasized the for future reference.

It also means that gardens planted, that hubby gets his first new suit in years, and the kids a holiday away from school. It can also be added that banks get over drafts for the financing of my latest creation, the coppers get to time and that generally there is fairly healthy boom. And there is doubt that if there are any thorough republicans within a thousand miles it will be attracted like a magnet all with their humbly discounting dollars. What with the supremacy of the centrepiece of p entry and the Canadian dollar world currency, there are indications of a British Commonwealth decline to fall.

And I can also report that totem poles made of cardboard have appeared in the window of the first agent in British Columbia to along with pleas to take even motor coach tours of London; even that has merit, with the mig totem now installed in Windsor Great Park by courtesy of the Royal gineers. Indeed if this sort of it goes on we shall be really B.C. a scious in a wholly unbiological sense.

Obviously nothing would be complete without some reference to Empress. It got in all right with royal suite. It is with some chat that I must report, so far, on fleeting reference to afternoon tea in a gossip paragraph.

To recap: B.C. should have a tenary more often.

Goodwill Lost

All citizens of the mainland and especially the people of Victoria are really grateful that the Black Ball ferries are still running.

However, labor has seen fit to criticize the government for their action in taking over and running them.

Unions have a very important place in the free world but there is another important fact and that is "good will."

I am very much afraid that public opinion in Victoria today is very much put out with the dogmatic attitude of all unions regardless of what they stand for.

Time only will tell if by a different approach and that is the "good will" of the travelling public and especially citizens of British Columbia.

Don't Spray Oaks

It is noticed that an attack of the looper moth has started in some areas near Victoria and that spraying is recommended with a 10 per cent solution of DDT.

Such action does not appear at all sound, in that spraying will also kill the natural enemies of these caterpillars. This could lead to yearly cycles of the pest, rather than the present infrequent ones.

Over the years, the oaks about Victoria have at times been subjected to severe attacks and have even lost all their leaves, however I have never seen any trees killed or permanently harmed.

Usually after a bad attack there will be freedom from the pest for a number of years; thus it would seem well not to upset the balance of nature in this connection.

Support Local Talent

While it is commendable that Victoria so heartily supports the artists and travelling companies who visit our city, it would be even more commendable to also support the local talent, particularly the group in this season's "Smile Show" who have put so much time and effort into getting the show together.

Perhaps if more residents of this area attended it would help "take up the slack" in the tourist trade which the "Smile Show" partially depends on, as do so many others in Victoria.

Stolen Flags

To Parents in Esquimalt: Should you notice your youngsters with a Nova Scotia flag it could possibly be the one stolen off my flagpole a few nights ago. I had it fastened at the top of the pole in front of my house and the person had to climb the flimsy pole to get it down.

This is the second Nova Scotia flag I have had stolen from the pole inside of 12 months. Possibly they wanted it for a souvenir. Had they told me I would have bought them one rather than see them start on a criminal career. Both flags were new and cost me $16.

Eden Vindicated

At the time of the Suez crisis I wrote Sir Anthony Eden and told him he would be proved right, and he has been indeed. Indian Customs

I have been interested to note that some of the coast Indians, from time to time wear headdress to which they are not entitled and which is not authentic. Among these Indians is Mr. Andy Paul.

I am informed upon good authority that the coast Indians never wore the headdress with which Andy Paul has adorned himself. The Indian tribes east of the Rocky Mountains who traditionally are entitled to wear the full feathered headgear referred to.

Our local coast Indians, including the Haidas, had their own headdress, which is colorful and distinctive but did not include the east of the Rockies' headdress aforesaid.

I have watched Mr. Andy Paul's activities and have read his statements, but have not been very impressed by them. His latest assertion to the effect that the provincial government had no right to deed Portland Island to Her Royal Highness the Princess Margaret is an example. To the best of my knowledge, the coast Indians never occupied any of the Gulf Islands, except Kuper Island, a small portion of Mayne Island and also Saturna Island, all of which are Indian reservations.

As a matter of fact, being superstitious people, none of them for many years ventured to land on Salt Spring Island for the reason that they believed this island was cursed by evil spirits.

In addition to the above reservations, there was a small Indian resort near Swartz Bay. As far as the smaller Gulf Islands are concerned, they very seldom ventured above high water mark, and only landed for the purpose of clam digging and sometimes for burying their dead.

The Rev. Dr. Peter Kelly, a full-blooded Haida, is a far more responsible spokesman of the coast Indians than the vocal Andy Paul.

WASHINGTON—The senate education subcommittee approved a science-scholarship program of $1,456,000,000 for federal scholarships, loans and other aid to students and teachers training for the space age.

Free Trade Suggested As U.S.-Canada Balm

WASHINGTON (CP)—Establishment of a free trade area between Canada and the United States was proposed in the Senate yesterday by Democratic Senator Richard L. Neuberger of Oregon.

He urged both countries to abolish tariffs for a five-year trial period in a continental economic plan designed to develop a free trade area that eventually would be tied to the common market being developed in Western Europe.

Neuberger said his plan could eliminate "controversies and recriminations" over national commercial policies which have led to "hard feeling and a regrettable clouding" of traditionally friendly Canada-U.S. relations.

He suggested free trade would be in the long-range mutual interest of both countries and would provide "great economic advantages."

Terror Bombs Rip Rails, Power Line

VERNON (CP)—Three separate terrorist bombings damaged two rail lines and a power pole in the Okanagan district early Monday.

One explosion blasted a 22-inch section out of one rail on the Canadian National Railway line and another destroyed a power pole at Oyama, 14 miles south of here.

Police set the time of the bombings as shortly before 3 a.m.

TORRE CRATER

A third bomb tore a two-foot crater in the roadbed and bent one of the rails on the Canadian Pacific Railway line two miles north of Oliver at 6:30 a.m.

The damage was discovered before any trains travelled the lines. No one was injured, but power was cut off for some hours in the Oyama area.

Police are investigating the possibility that the terrorists used timing mechanisms to detonate the bombs.

The explosions follow with drawal of the large force of officers who moved into the Kelowna area to guard Princess Margaret during her brief stay there.

No incidents occurred during the Princess' visit, although RCMP twice cut out carloads of radical Sons of Freedom Doukhobors trying to join the royal procession in Vernon and Kelowna.

Police plan to bring a tracker dog into the area to trace the bombers.

Goodwill Lost

All citizens of the mainland and especially the people of Victoria are really grateful that the Black Ball ferries are still running.

However, labor has been fit to criticize the government for their action in taking over and running them.

Unions have a very important place in the free world but there is another important fact and that is "good will."

I am very much afraid that public opinion in Victoria today is very much put out with the dogmatic attitude of all unions regardless of what they stand for.

Time only will tell if by a different approach and attitude they will regain what they have certainly lost and that is the "good will" of the travelling public and especially citizens of British Columbia.

Don't Spray Oaks

It is noticed that an attack of the looper moth has started in some areas near Victoria and that spraying is recommended with a 10 per cent solution of DDT.

Such action does not appear at all sound. In that spraying will also kill the natural enemies of these caterpillars. This could lead to yearly cycles of the pest, rather than the present infrequent ones.

Over the years, the oaks about Victoria have at times been subjected to severe attacks and have even lost all their leaves, however I have never seen any trees killed or permanently harmed.

Usually after a bad attack there will be freedom from the pest for a number of years; thus it would seem well not to upset the balance of nature in this connection.

Support Local Talent

While it is commendable that Victoria so heartily supports the artists and travelling companies who visit our city, it would be even more commendable to also support the local talent, particularly the group in this season's "Smile Show" who have put so much time and effort into getting the show together.

Perhaps if more residents of this area attended it would help "take up the slack" in the tourist trade which the "Smile Show" partially depends on, as do so many others in Victoria.

Stolen Flags

To Parents in Esquimalt: Should you notice your youngsters with a Nova Scotia flag it could possibly be the one stolen off my flagpole a few nights ago. I had it fastened at the top of the pole in front of my house and the person had to climb the flimsy pole to get it down.

This is the second Nova Scotia flag I have had stolen from the pole inside of 12 months. Possibly they wanted it for a souvenir. Had they told me I would have bought them one rather than see them start on a criminal career. Both flags were new and cost me $16.

Eden Vindicated

At the time of the Suez crisis I wrote Sir Anthony Eden and told him he would be proved right, and he has been indeed. But grave as is the risk, the U.S. and U.K. acted rightly in going to their aid when asked to by Lebanon and Jordan. That they did is the only hope today for the world, as I see it.

Indian Customs

I have been interested to note that some of the coast Indians, from time to time wear headdress to which they are not entitled and which is not authentic. Among these Indians is Mr. Andy Paul.

I am informed upon good authority that the coast Indians never wore the headdress with which Andy Paul has adorned himself. The Indian tribes east of the Rocky Mountains who traditionally are entitled to wear the full feathered headgear referred to.

Our local coast Indians, including the Haidas, had their own headdress, which is colorful and distinctive but did not include the crest of the Rockies' headdress aforesaid.

I have watched Mr. Andy Paul's activities and have read his statements, but have not been very impressed by them. His latest assertion in the effect that the provincial government had no right to deed Portland Island to Her Royal Highness the Princess Margaret is an example. To the best of my knowledge, the coast Indians never occupied any of the Gulf Islands, except Kuper Island, a small portion of Mayne Island and also Saturna Island, all of which are Indian reservations.

As a matter of fact, being superstitious people, none of them for many years ventured to land on Salt Spring Island for the reason that they believed this island was cursed by evil spirits.

In addition to the above reservations, there was a small Indian resort near Swartz Bay. As far as the smaller Gulf Islands are concerned, they very seldom ventured above high water mark, and only landed for the purpose of clam-digging and sometimes for burying their dead.

The Rev. Dr. Peter Kelly, a full-blooded Haida, is a far more responsible spokesman of the coast Indians than the vocal Andy Paul.

Mr. Jung's remarks in a written statement made only that indirect reference to a speech by Senator J. W. de B. Farris (British Columbia), who in the Senate had referred to him as "this Chinaman" while commenting on statements Mr. Jung was reported to have made in Paris.

Mr. Jung, president of the Young Progressive Conservatives of Canada, was attending a NATO youth conference and was quoted in a July 10 interview as saying that Canadian delegations to Russia are hand-picked and "naturally biased."

His statement said that those views were conference ones applied to Russian youth visitors to the West.

'Make Car-Owners Pay More'

Owners of private cars should pay a higher percentage of taxes toward the maintenance and construction of highways in B.C., a royal commission on trucking was told yesterday.

Motels, gas stations, coffee shops and other highway "non-users" should also pay a substantial amount toward the development of roads to which they are completely dependent, tenance by the various users.

The suggestion came from expansion on the public highway. Conway Parrott of Vancouver passenger carrier had been Island Coach Lines who was "critical," Mr. Parrott said and representing small bus opera he quoted a section from the report before the four-man commission of the royal commission on mission probing the costs of Canada's economic prospects highway construction and main which said:

"... The private automobile has not only cut into passenger volume it has also crowded the streets in such numbers as to make transit service slower and less dependable, and it has stimulated the growth of low density, automobile-oriented suburbs where buses run at a loss."

False Teeth Often Have a Certain Odor!

Soak your plates in Polident daily to avoid "Denture Breath"

Polident is the specially designed cleanser that keeps false teeth—and breath—clean and fresh always. Follow these simple rules:

1. Never use a brush on them! Your denture plates are much softer than natural teeth. Brushing wears down fitting plates so they get loose.
2. Never use soap or toothpaste! They can leave film which collects bacteria and food particles. A major cause of offensive "Denture Breath."
3. Use a soaking-type cleanser made for false teeth only. Polident! Polident is the denture cleanser recommended by more dentists than any other. No brushing, no handling of soap plates that can slip and break. Polident gets where a brush can't reach. Best of all, Polident always leaves false teeth color free. Tennis Final Tomorrow

Finals in the annual city playgrounds tennis tournament will start at 1 p.m. tomorrow at Central Park.

Competition is keen this year with 85 youngsters trying for the top spots in the four divisions, boys and girls open and boys and girls novice.

Play, which started yesterday, continues today at 1 p.m. at Central Park.

Extra Lifeguards To Be Hired For Beaver-Elk

Extra lifeguards will be hired so that protection can be given seven days a week at Elk and Beaver Lakes, Victoria's Spanish beaches and parks committee decided yesterday.

Until now, lifeguards at the Eagles Park end of Elk Lake and at Beaver Lake have been on duty only Saturday, Sunday, Wednesday and holiday afternoons.

The committee made its decision over some objections from Ald. Geoffrey Edgell, who wanted to know why suddenly, without any drownings, the committee thought it should provide more lifeguards in this one area.

City parks administrator W. H. Warren said it was "by the grace of God" that there had not been drownings at the lake this year.

The property surrounding Elk and Beaver Lakes cannot be dedicated as park, water commissioner James Garnett told the committee.

Furthermore, he said, it was even possible that in another 20 years, swimming in the lakes might have to be banned.

Mr. Garnett said the time undoubtedly would come when Elk and Beaver Lakes would have to be used increasingly as a source of water, and that it was essential that the watershed be kept under control as a watershed.

The committee also approved a ban on motorcycle riding on Mount Douglas Park trails.

'My Fur Lady'

Appeals to Voters

Urgent appeal for Esquimalt voters to study qualifications of the three byelection candidates and then get out and vote Thursday, was made last night by Reeve A. C. Wurtele. He said council was forced by the Municipal Act to hold the byelection now, although councillors frown on summer elections when interest is at low ebb. The reeve said he hopes for a 30 per cent turnout at least between 8 a.m. and 8 p.m. Thursday at polls at the municipal hall and 855 Craigflower.

Big Splash Ends Season for Kids

Children who have been enjoying the summer program of the Oak Bay Playgrounds Association will have one final round of fun at a splash party in the Crystal Garden pool at 9 a.m. tomorrow.

Cornarvon and Windsor Parks will hold a final sports day starting at 1:30 p.m. today.

Blubber's in the Fire

By COURTNEY TOWER

The great gale of Canadian laughter aroused by "My Fur Lady" was echoed with enthusiasm in the Royal Theatre here last night.

Three Eskimo citizens of "Mukluke" packed their princess off on a marrying mission to Ottawa and from then on, for a delightful fun house "the blubber was in the fire."

From that opening skit, "My Fur Lady" had a guffawing, happily-applauding Victoria audience in stitches, at the show and at themselves.

The musical spoof of everything Canadian from the governor-general to poetry, the flag and Mackenzie King, was a clear winner over the hot, sticky oppressiveness of the theatre.

If Muklukians don't get their Princess Aurora, talented Dawn Parker, married off before she is 21, in a month, their independent state, now wealthy from over-charging DEW line constructors, will be taken over by Canada.

And that would be disgusting because "you know how

Canada Carries On — John Fisher told us."

It goes on like that, only for the better. Princess Aurora, while man-hunting in the Canadian capital, also gets a few lessons about this country from the governor-general, affectionately known as "G. G." by his sex-kiffish secretary, a "Culturality they put it on the backs of menus." Mackenzie King appears over a crystal ball and chants, "Conscription or not? Conscription?" Sir John A. Macdonald and his love for liquor—"Sir John was a conservative prime minister, and it took the party 70 years to recover."

The dashing Fairlane 500 Town Victoria. Ford cars are built in Canada . . . by Canadians . . . for Canadians.

Look what Ford's done to make driving more fun!

...and safer too!

You just can't appreciate how wonderfully different these new Fords are until you take the wheel yourself!

The fun begins with the simple act of getting into the car. Only "yesterday" it was stoop down or knock off your hat. Head room over the back seat was so skimpy that the dented fenders was the rule more often than the exception. Now all that has changed. There's room for you and your hat inside a Ford.

Even before you start the engine, notice how much more you can see . . . for the Ford's Full-Circle visibility lets you see where you're going . . . see what's coming . . . see to park. What a change from cars of even a couple of years ago!

Now start the engine. Observe how smoothly it idles. That's because Ford engines are built with painstaking care. Every Ford V-8 is electronically mass balanced while running under its own power. No other car in Ford's field goes to such lengths to bring you an engine that will operate smoothly . . . dependably . . . efficiently.

Ease down on the throttle and feel yourself take off with all the dash and verve of a Thunderbird! No wonder! Ford V-8's give you up to 303-hp. Teamed with new Cruise-O-Matic Drive they offer up to 15% savings on gasoline. It's like getting back 15¢ on every gas dollar. (And if your pick is a Six, you can't buy a more powerful modern 6-cylinder engine than Ford's 145-hp Mileage Maker Six.)

Next hunt up the roughest roads you can find. Notice how bumps lose their bounce with Ford's softer-riding suspension system that carries you smooth and easy. Notice how Ford's exclusive Automatic-Ride Control combines Ball-Joint front suspension with long, tailored-to-weight rear springs so that you ride level . . . corner level . . . enjoy a "big car feel."

Ford gives you more — much more in the way of riding comfort. Ford seats are wide-sofa-wide. They are bolted directly to the frame for greater strength and safety. And you sit in a relaxed, natural position with Ford's Automatic Posture Control. What's more, Ford gives you more insulation in doors, roof and body panels than does any other car in its field. Live rubber body mounts between chassis and body help damp out vibration.

And Lifeguard Design means there's greater safety, too, in every Ford. The deep center steering wheel protects the driver from the steering column in case of accident. Ford double-grip door locks can withstand pulling pressures of up to 2500 lbs.

Ford builds for keeps. Every Ford is put together with fine-car precision. Front end, passenger and rear assemblies are interlocked for a stiffer, stronger unit. Five cross pieces span the roof for extra rigidity and protection. Outside, Ford's durable baked enamel finish helps keep that new car shine for years.

Did you know that Fords come in two sizes? 20 models include six station wagons and the Skyliner, world's only retractable hard-top. Just touch a button and the Skyliner's all-steel roof disappears into the trunk in less than a minute. . . one more example of the advanced engineering skill that goes into every car Ford builds! Your Ford Dealer will be glad to check you out in a glamorous model so you can discover at first hand all the wonderful things that have happened to Fords. Let the car itself tell you why Ford is worth more when you buy it, worth more when you sell it, too!

Alston Gets 10 Days To Improve Dodgers

Walter Alston's days as manager of the last-place Los Angeles Dodgers are numbered unless the club does a complete change and starts winning. 10 days it was reported yesterday by United Press International.

Charley Dressen, a Dodger coach, appears owner Walter O'Malley's choice as Alston's successor although it was learned Leo Durocher and Bobby Bragan also are under consideration. Dressen won two pennants during the three years he managed the Dodgers in Brooklyn.

If the Dodgers don't show considerable improvement during the next 10 days, a new manager is almost certain to be named around the time the club returns to Los Angeles, Aug. 8, according to the UPI source.

"O'Malley has already decided to make a change and he's debating among three choices—Dressen, Bragan and Durocher," the authoritative source asserted.

Meanwhile, the Dodgers made some player changes in an effort to shake the club from the doldrums. Pitcher Ed Roebuck has been placed on the voluntary retired list; infielder Dick Gray has been optioned to St. Paul and pitcher Bobby Giallombardo, optioned to Montreal.

Pitcher Babe Birrer, 12.5 with Montreal, has been brought up along with infielder Bob Lillis and pitcher Danny McDevitt, both from St. Paul. McDevitt had a 3-1 record with the American Association club.

GEN. DUKE, one of racing's top three-year-olds last year, was destroyed yesterday because of an incurable spinal disease. The Calumet Farm colt won $142,020 during his racing career. Chicago White Sox have optioned righthander Bob Keegan to Indianapolis of the American Association and recalled righthander Barry Larkin, 20, from the same club.

Detroit Tigers have sold veteran catcher Elmo Hegan to Philadelphia Phillies of the National League for the $20,000 waiver price. The Tigers also recalled catcher Charley Lau from Charleston. No brain damage whatever was suffered by Ryne Duren, ace rookie relief pitcher for the New York Yankees, when he was struck by a pitched ball Thursday. The report was made following exhaustive tests. The California State Athletic Commission has announced that Jimmy Carter, former lightweight boxing champion, has been placed on the permanent retired and beaten, 6-3, 6-2, by Monika Ahlen. In the girls' under-15 singles, Bonnie Watson of Courtenay won her first match but Rosanne Idiens of Courtenay and Joan McCormick of Victoria were beaten. Top-seeded John Fraser won his first match in the junior boys' singles but Don McCormick of Victoria lost in the boys' under-13 singles. Brian Ault of Courtenay won his first match in the men's singles but lost to Bill Schaeffer of Santa Rosa, 6-2, 6-2, in the second round. Bob Peskett of Victoria lost, 6-1, 6-0, to Jim Watson of San Francisco in a first-round match; Reidar Getz of Victoria lost to Jim Jackson of Kamath Falls, 6-3, 6-2, in a first-round match.

In ladies' singles, Mirja Peterson of Victoria won from Marg McLean of Vancouver, 7-5, 6-4, 6-4, then lost to Anne Barclay of Vancouver, 6-4, 6-2. Maureen Bray of Victoria won from Mrs. Roberta Eloffson of Yakima, 6-0, 6-0, then lost to Mrs. Dolleschell, 6-0, 6-1. Sharon Whittaker of Victoria won twice, defeating Linda Yomans of Los Angeles, 6-4, 6-4, and Wynne Myers of Vancouver, 6-4, 6-0.

Dr. George Bigelow, Victoria Golf champion, scored his fourth hole-in-one at the Oak Bay club since last November when he ached the 123-yard eighth hole on Sunday.

Dr. Bigelow, who was watching strokes with Bill Newcombe, now has eight holes-in-one to his credit.

Padre Miller of Portland was seeded first among "foreign" ladies while Barbara Browning and Pamela Davis of Los Angeles and Farel Footman of San Francisco were seeded next in that order. Defending champion Mrs. Louise Brown of Toronto was the first-seeded Canadian, followed by Susan Butt of Victoria, Hilda Dolleschell of Toronto and Eleanor Dodge of Montreal.

DEFULTS OPENER Miss Miller, however, defaulted her first game because of previous commitments to play elsewhere which would have made it impossible for her to complete the tournament. Howe and Reed had trouble in their first matches. Suffering from an attack of buritis, Howe managed a 6-4, 8-6, win over George Morfitt of Vancouver. Reed got an argument from Vancouver-veteran Walt Stohlberg before winning, 7-5, 6-4. Kamo and Bassett advanced without trouble.

And so did the top four Canadian men and the seeded ladies. Miss Butt advanced into the second round by default.

Vancouver Island players won seven of their 11 opening matches. Gordon Betcher and Dave Chapman of Courtenay and John Fraser of Victoria all were taken by three anglers reached the second round in the who had previously qualified, junior men's singles and Diane Bob Redgrave won the weekly Lawrence and Wendy Cox of trophy and one of a 24lb. bag at first; then missed Bouches' toss. O'Connell scored all the way from second. Earlier in the game, rookie Felipe Alou hit a two-run homer for the runs which kept the Giants close.

TOUGH TO LOSE The Giants had to start Ruben Gomez in the second game and the Cuban right-hander came through with a four-hitter in his first win since May 25. And he had to be good. Jack Meyer struck out 12 Giants and allowed but six hits.

On Sunday, the Giants lost ground when they lost the first game of a doubleheader, 2-1, to Pittsburgh Pirates in 11 innings. The second game was tied at 3-3 in the bottom of the eighth inning when the curfew ended action for the day.

Milwaukee Braves moved ahead by outscoring Chicago Cubs, 4-1, behind the steady pitching of rookie Carlton Willey while Hank Aaron furnished the punch by driving in three runs with his 22nd homer and a run-scoring single.

New York Yankees, their seventh game win streak ended Sunday when Cleveland Indians surprised by sweeping a doubleheader, 7-2, 7-2, took it out on Kansas City Athletics last night to widen their American League lead to 15 games.

HITS TWO HOMERS Mickey Mantle hit his 27th and 28th home runs, Gil McDougald hit his ninth and 10th and Hank Bauer unloaded a three-run triple as the Yankees rox to a 1-1 victory. Ex-Yankee Bob Cerv did his best for the Athletics, matching Mantle by hitting his 27th and 28th home runs. The major on Sunday, Cal McLish and rookie Mudcat Grant stopped the Yankees with fine pitching while Rocky Colavito took care of much of the Cleveland run-making.

Persistent Giants Only Point Behind

San Francisco Giants are short on first-line pitching and they are studded with rookies who have yet to attain the consistency of proven major leaguers but, somehow, they seem to come up with whatever is needed to keep them in the National League race.

Yesterday, the Giants moved within a point of the lead as they found some unexpected pitching and continued their amazing ninthinning rallies to sweep a doubleheader from the Philadelphia Phillies, 3-2 and 2-1, in the only scheduled National League action.

Bonus-southpaw Mike McCormick won the first game as the Giants won a game with a ninthinning rally for the 17th time this season. This time, they got help from Dick Farrell, who fouled up a play at first base which enabled the winning run to score.

Farrell opened the inning by walking Danny O'Connell, Willie Kirkland then bounced to first baseman Ed Bouches but Farrell was late in covering the

Seeded Players Lead Advance In Canadian Tennis Tourney

VANCOUVER—No major upset was recorded in the first day's play in the Canadian tennis championships here Monday as seeded players all won their games.

Conciliation Boards 'Farce'

The Conciliation Boards, which were set up to help resolve labour disputes, are being criticized as a "farce" by some people. The boards are supposed to be impartial and to help both sides of a dispute reach a fair agreement. However, some people feel that the boards are biased and that they are not doing their job properly. They say that the boards are just a way for employers to avoid paying wages and benefits to their workers. They also say that the boards are not taking into account the needs of the workers. The boards are supposed to be a last resort for resolving disputes, but some people feel that they are not worth the effort and expense.

Jobs, Homes, Love

A three-part demand on the churches depleted by the hot weather. The forceful preacher who has drawn packed churches in Los Angeles said that, "the determination of the Negro to gain independence is the most powerful force against segregation. He emphasized the church's role in the struggles of the world and said it was the greatest force for peace in the world today."

"There are only three things we advocate," said the colored minister preaching at St. Aidan's United Church, "Jobs, Homes, Love."

you are able to buy and of your own choosing, love when you are able to find it."

"Let Canada be a haven for the oppressed," he said.

Mr. Higgins was speaking for the third Sunday from the pulpit of St. Aidan's which he is occupying on an exchange basis for a month with the regular incumbent, the Rev. A. I. Avery.

The evening service was a special one scheduled to afford those turned away from the doors through lack of space in the morning.

Around Town

School Land Sale Delayed For Minister

Education Minister Leslie Peterson has asked city council to delay offering for sale 6½ acres formerly set aside for school purposes, while he studies the matter.

Council recently decided to lift the properties from the reserve, because they had never been used for school purposes, and to put them up for sale.

Two persons were treated in hospital for injuries suffered in traffic accidents late Saturday and Sunday.

Charles B. Kemp, 2926 Colquitz, was discharged from Royal Jubilee Hospital Monday after being held during the weekend following an accident Saturday at 11:25 p.m. Police said he blacked out, and the car he was driving struck a pole at Austin and Cowper.

Treated for an eye cut and discharged from St. Joseph's Hospital was George Baker, 34, of Lake Cowichan. He was involved in an accident Sunday at 3 p.m. on Prospect Lake Road.

Four members of Victoria city police will represent this city next weekend at annual revolver shoot of Seattle Police Force. Members of the team are Detectives Alex Briggs, Robert Mair, N. A. Bouchard and Juvenile Officer Lyle Somers.

Special "good citizenship" awards were made to 50 Greater Victoria residents in Beacon Hill Park Sunday afternoon.

The awards were copies of the Victoria Numismatic Society centennial medal, identical with the medal recently presented here to Princess Margaret.

Mayor Percy Scourrah made the presentations. Congratulations were extended by L. J. Wallace, chairman of the B.C. Centennial Committee and Ald. Geoffrey Edgewood.

A film on boating will be shown at Royal Victoria Yacht Club at 8 p.m. today. It will cover the Swiftsure and Gold Cup races, Pacific International Yachting Association regatta and the Seattle sailing-season opening day. Club officials said anyone may attend the film showing free of charge.

Victorians may not have opened their hearts and their homes very much for visiting sailors during Navy Week, but the hospitality was appreciated by those lucky enough to get it.

One of the sailors was Carl Cruikshank, 20010 Ashton Road, Detroit, whose father, David Cruikshank, has written to Victoria Chamber of Commerce thanking Victoria for its hospitality.
